

Mad Dash by Eric Berlin

Write a letter on one of the dashed lines to make a seven-letter word reading around the circle. Then write a different letter on a different line to make a second seven-letter word. The two words might both read clockwise (as DESPAIR and PARADES do, in the example at right), or the two words might read counterclockwise, or they might read in opposite directions.

